No vessels, therefore, except those belonging to the "Southern Whale-Fishery Company" will be permitted to anchor on the Coast, nor in the Bays of the said Islands for the purpose of Whaling or Sealing, since persons capturing such Whale and Seals are no more entitled to them than in England, where they would be claimed as belonging to the Crown, Droits of Admiralty, Lord of the Manor, &c.

Every assistance and accommodation, however, will be afforded to vessels which may visit these Islands for Trade, Repairs, Stores, or Refreshments; but no vessel will be allowed to break bulk, nor land goods of any description until twenty-four hours after the Master of such vessel has delivered to the Storekeeper a manifest of the cargo, and in case of failure or refusal to answer all such questions relating to the cargo, the Master of such vessel shall either quit the Islands without breaking bulk, or forfeit the sum of (£20) twenty pounds.

INCORPORATED BY ACT OF COUNCIL.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Special General or Extraordinary Meeting of the Shareholders of the Sydney Railway Company, will be held at the offices of the Company, No. 247, Elizabeth-street North, on Tuesday, the 29th day of October instant, at one o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of electing five Directors in the place of Charles Nicholson, John Lamb, and Daniel Cooper, junior, Esquires, who have resigned, and also of Thomas Holt, junior, and William Bradley, Esquires, who have signified to the Board their intention of resigning their offices of Directors on that day.

TO THOMAS HOLT, JUN., ESQ.

SIR,—We, the undersigned Shareholders of the Sydney Railway Company, entirely appreciate the conduct of yourself and co-Directors in resigning, from recent occurrences, your seats at the Board.

We are satisfied that continuing any longer at that Board must be distasteful to you, and we feel therefore great reluctance in requesting you again to put yourself in nomination for the office of Director, and were we not thoroughly convinced of the great interest you feel in this national undertaking, and of your ability to promote it, we should not venture to make the request which is herein contained.

On examination of the list of candidates who have announced themselves, it is impossible not to be struck with the paucity of country residents, and as we consider it absolutely essential to the interests of the railway that the country should be adequately represented in the Direction, we turn to you as the most suitable person in every respect to represent that interest.

Travelling continually as you do, on the line of road, you will be peculiarly able to offer suggestions during the progress of the work, and from the known energy of your character, and your thorough conversance with business, we think your services would be most valuable.

Under these circumstances, we request that you will offer yourself as a candidate for one of the vacant seats at the Board, and we pledge ourselves to use our utmost efforts to secure your return.

We remain, Sir,
Your very faithful servants,

TO THE SHAREHOLDERS OF THE SYDNEY RAILWAY COMPANY.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—In compliance with the above requisition, I do myself the honour to announce myself a candidate for re-election as a Director of your Company. I feel truly grateful to those gentlemen at whose instance I have been induced again to solicit your suffrages, for the favourable opinion they have been pleased to express of my past exertions to further the progress of the Railway; and I beg to give this public assurance, that if reelected, I will persevere, as heretofore, in devoting my best attention to your interests.

I have the honour to be,
Ladies and Gentlemen,
Your most obedient servant,
7242 THOMAS HOLT, JUN.

TO M. METCALFE, ESQ., AND THE OTHER GENTLEMEN SIGNING THE REQUISITION.

GENTLEMEN,—In thanking you for the high compliment you have paid me by your communication of the 19th instant, the receipt of which I have now the honour to acknowledge, I owe it to myself to state, that I did not resign my office of Director from any personal feeling, nor from any previous understanding with those of my late colleagues who have thought fit to do the same. My determination was formed solely upon a calm review of what had transpired at the meeting of the shareholders held on the 7th instant, which indicated most clearly, that the agitation for reinstating Mr. Cowper in his office, involving the abandonment of a principle gravely adopted by the Company, had been carried on but too successfully.

It must be known to many, if not to most of you, that it was the adoption of this very principle which led to my being honoured with a seat at the Board of Directors. You may not, therefore, be unprepared for my saying, that so far from my being able to discover wherein, or upon what data, the separation of the office of Manager from that of President could be pronounced, as it has been a "grievous mistake," I only felt more and more convinced, upon reflection, that the abandonment of the principle upon which it was done, would be of very doubtful policy, and likely to prejudice the interests of the Company. I may possibly be mistaken in my notions upon this subject, and through an anxiety for the success of the undertaking in which we are engaged, may be out in my calculations, as to what has, or has not, a tendency to ensure that degree of support from the public of which we stand in need. But all that I have yet heard advanced in favour of our making such a departure from the usual safe course of business has been based wholly upon kindly considerations for the circumstances and personal worth of Mr. C. Cowper, and his strong claims upon the gratitude of the Company for his past disinterested exertions. I have had, I believe, as good an opportunity as most persons, of becoming acquainted with the nature and extent of these exertions, and would yield to no one in conceding to Mr. C. Cowper the utmost meed of honour and emolument to which he may be fairly entitled on this score. But after weighing, in all its bearings, the question raised by his proceeding, I could not bring myself, even for his sake, and with the certain loss of his services in prospect, to surrender a principle, demonstrated to have been most salutary by the very statistics of the Company, and therefore could not think myself justified in sharing any longer, upon such terms, the responsibility of the Direction. Although the resolution passed at the late meeting virtually implied a want of confidence in the Board of Directors, as then constituted, I did not, I confess, regard it as such, because I felt certain it was not so intended by a majority of those who were present. And I have been gratified at receiving assurances from many quarters that nothing of the kind was contemplated. Our conduct has been censured in a letter published by a gentleman, whose judgment in general matters is most deservedly esteemed, because we did not signify our intentions at the meeting, or openly express our dissent to the resolution when proposed. The fact is, that in full consciousness of having done every thing in our power for the good of the Company, we went to the meeting without any concerted plan, as to the course we should pursue. We left it also without any consultation as to the predicament in which the result placed us. I would refrain from adverting to what had previously passed at the Board respecting this unpleasant business, if I saw any other way of affording you a satisfactory explanation of the matter, which I do not. It may be [illegible] tion to persons of discernment, and gentlemen conversant with the management of public Companies, that we did not entertain the thought of accepting Mr. Cowper's resignation until every attempt to meet his wishes had failed, and only after he had declined the offer distinctly made by three several Directors to create a vacancy in his favour. Nothing less would satisfy Mr. Cowper than being appointed President also.

Up to this period, notwithstanding the rumours so prevalent to the contrary, nothing had occurred to disturb the harmony subsisting between the Manager and the Directors, saving the instance referred to by Mr. Lamb, when Mr. Cowper applied for the rescinding a resolution of the Board, which prevented the Manager from drawing the funds of the Company out of the Treasury without the additional signature of a Director. As this application had been made the very week preceding Mr. C. Cowper's resignation, it was natural enough to connect so unlooked for a step with the uneasiness he had so recently manifested at the restriction which the resolution imposed upon his power over the funds. A full liberty to draw the funds of a Company at will, especially with the two most important offices combined in the same person, if not more than a Manager has a right to expect, is more than I would ever consent to grant. There would, I allow, be nothing to apprehend from the abuse of such commanding influence during Mr. Cowper's tenure of office; but the precedent and the system once established, where would be the safeguard against the affairs of the Company being thrown into hopeless derangement at any future time? And even as regards the present, who would undertake to say that it would contribute to the establishment of confidence, beyond the limits of the colony, or in parts of the country where the character of Mr. Cowper is less known?

Mr. Cowper, at the public meeting, certainly consented to withdraw his pretensions to the office of President; but even if I had not myself witnessed his pertinacity upon this point, I have too high an opinion of his moral courage to suppose that he would, for any temporary purpose, renounce all of a sudden the deliberate convictions of his mind, arrived at, as he himself intimates, "after many months' consideration," or that he has, at the impulse of a moment, finally given up an object for which he has made such an effort, and his endeavour to attain which has occasioned the present crisis of our affairs.

I could add more, but I trust I have said enough to vindicate the consistency of my resignation. I have, in compliance with the requisition with which you have favoured me, addressed a letter to the Shareholders generally, declaring myself a candidate for reelection, and beg the honour of remaining,

To His Excellency Sir Charles Augustus Fitz Roy, Knight, Governor-in-Chief of New South Wales and its dependencies.

HEALTH WHERE 'TIS SOUGHT.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS,

Cure of a disordered Liver and Stomach, when in a most hopeless state.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Matthew Harvey, of Chapel Hall, Airdrie, Scotland, dated the 15th of January, 1850.

To Professor Holloway.

SIR,—Your valuable Pills have been the means, with God's blessing, of restoring me to a state of perfect health, and at a time when I thought I was on the brink of the grave. I had consulted several eminent doctors, who, after doing what they could for me, stated that they considered my case as hopeless. I ought to say that I had been suffering from a liver and stomach complaint of long standing, which during the last two years got so much worse, that every one considered my condition as hopeless. I as a last resource got a box of your Pills, which soon gave relief, and by persevering in their use for some weeks, together with rubbing night and morning your Ointment over my chest and stomach, and right side, I have by their means alone got completely cured, and to the astonishment of myself and everybody who knows me.

(Signed) MATTHEW HARVEY.

Cure of a case of Weakness and Debility, of four years' standing.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. William Smith, of No. 5, Little Thomas-street, Gibson-street, Lambeth, dated December 12, 1849.

To Professor Holloway.

SIR,—I beg to inform you that for nearly five years I hardly knew what it was to have a day's health, suffering from extreme weakness and debility, with constant nervous headaches, giddiness, and sickness of the stomach, together with a great depression of spirits. I used to think that nothing could benefit me, as I had been to many medical men, some of whom, after doing all that was in their power, informed me that they considered that I had some spinal complaint beyond the reach of cure, together with a very disordered state of the stomach and liver, making my case so complicated that nothing could be done for me. One day, being unusually ill and in a dejected state, I saw your Pills advertised, and resolved to give them a trial, more perhaps from curiosity than with a hope of being cured; however I soon found myself better by taking them, and so I went on persevering in their use for six months, when I am happy to say they effected a perfect cure.

(frequently called EDWARD.)

Cure of a case of great debility, where the constitution was fast breaking up.

Extract of a letter from Mr. E. Meeter, Editor of the Star der Hoop Newspaper, dated Nymegen, Holland, the 20th January, 1850.

Professor Holloway.

SIR,—It is with great satisfaction that I have to acquaint you that Mr. Reintjees Van Veerssen, a Merchant residing here, had been suffering for years from general debility and prostration of strength, so much so, that he was quite incapable of attending to any kind of business; his constitution appeared to be rapidly breaking up, notwithstanding the efforts of the cleverest medical men. Your Pills being in great vogue here, he was induced to try them, which soon did him so much good that he persevered in their use for some weeks, and is now perfectly cured, and in gratitude for so great a blessing, he desires that publicity may be given to his case, that others may be induced to seek relief from the use of your Pills as he did. I have, therefore, published a statement of this fact in my Paper.

(Signed) E. MEETER.

[illegible] stomach complaint.

Extract of a Letter from His Lordship, dated Villa Messina, Leghorn, 21st February, 1845.

To Professor Holloway.

SIR,—Various circumstances prevented the possibility of my thanking you before this time for your politeness in sending me your Pills as you did. I now take this opportunity of sending you an order for the amount, and, at the same time, to add that your Pills have effected a cure of a disorder in my liver and Stomach, which all the most eminent of the Faculty at home, and all over the Continent, had not been able to effect: nay, not even the waters of Carlsbad and Marienbad. I wish to have another Box and a Pot of the Ointment, in case any of my family should ever require either.

Your most obliged and obedient Servant,

JAMES M. SMYTH has much pleasure in informing the many ladies who have patronised his Fashionable Millinery Establishment, he has two first hand milliners from the London Establishment, who have just arrived, and brought a great many new light materials in spring wear for bonnets, and first-rate ideas as to fashion, with them. Ladies are respectfully informed that the last fashion books that have been received in Sydney do not contain the latest fashions, having himself brought from London last April (from his brother-in-law, Brandone, 139 and 140, Oxford-street, Court Milliner, who goes to Paris twice a year for the fashions), many things much newer than are in the fashion books. He has also received a quantity of articles of the latest style, and which can only be seen at his establishment.

J. M. S. now respectfully invites those ladies that prefer seeing a fashionable stock of bonnets to chose from, in preference to giving their orders to have them made, to pay a visit to his establishment, where they can at once see upwards of 500 bonnets of the most fashionable description, trimmed, from 7s. 6d. In consequence of so general a demand for fashionable millinery, the large room above the shop, known as the Botanic and Horticultural Room, is now fitted up as a show room for bonnets only.

PORT PHILLIP.

Arrivals.—October 9. Alice, schooner, 88 tons, Robertson, from New Zealand via Launceston; 10. Diana, brig, 103 tons, Peake, from Sydney 27th ult; Antares, schooner, 131 tons, Macarthur, from Adelaide 4th instant.

A passenger by the Admiral informs us, that when nearing the Cape de Verds, they passed the hull of a large vessel, supposed to be a ship. She was one body of fire fore and aft, the masts were out of her, and only the stump of the bowsprit left with a piece of the staysail still hanging to it, there were three or four guns which appeared to have been run out at the ports, the carriages were burnt from under them, and they appeared to be hanging by chain breechings, with their muzzles pointed to the water, the decks were burnt through, and in the rolling of the vessel she showed her hold enwrapped in flames. A boat was lowered by Captain Freyer, and the second mate with a boat's crew pulled round this unfortunate craft, but owing to the quantity of smoke and flames, it was impossible to get near enough to make out her name.—Melbourne Argus, October 10.

ADELAIDE.

Arrivals.—September 21. Princess Helena, ship, 616 tons, Giles, from [illegible] 27. Standerings, barque, 2[illegible] tons, [illegible] from Liverpool the 16th June, and Tristan da Cuna the 18th August.

The Oberon has returned to port after an unsuccessful cruise among the South Sea Islands in search of trade, caused by the prevailing equinoctial gales and much bad weather. On the 17th instant, when off Cape Lookout (near Moreton Bay), the vessel was struck with lightning: the electric fluid passed down the topmast in the form of a corkscrew, rendering the spar useless, then down the mainmast, taking a large piece out of the head of that spar; then passed into the hold of the vessel. The captain, mate, Mr. Lyons, and two seamen, who were standing near the companion, were all knocked down, fortunately without sustaining any injury further than a severe shock. On the 18th she spoke the Cumberland, hence for Moreton Bay. While at Simbo Island, Captain M'Cully heard from the natives that the schooner Secret, Captain Jamison, had called there about the middle of September, and reported having been attacked by the natives of a small island, one of the New Georgian Group, in which the schooner was victorious, having succeeded in killing a chief and five or six of the savages. There were none wounded or killed on board, although they had to oppose a large number of the natives.

The wreck of the Juniper, as she now lies in Jervis Bay, was sold yesterday by Mr. S. Lyons for £112 2s. 6d., Messrs. F. Mitchell and Co. being the purchasers.

The Woodbridge, from Newcastle, arrived at Port Cooper (New Zealand), after a long and tiresome passage, having to put into Wellington for water. She only lost five head of cattle and sixteen sheep on the passage, which were injured in taking on board. After landing her stock she proceeded to India for freight. Captain Coppel speaks very favourably of the anchorage and safety of the Port Cooper harbour.

Cargo of the Lavina, from Moreton Bay: 24,000 feet pine, 8 bales wool, 7 casks and 130 paunches tallow, 70 sheepskins, 29 casks pork, and sundries. The Emigrant, ship, 753 tons, Captain Kemp, sailed from Moreton Bay on the 9th, on a guano voyage to the northward. The Lavina left Cape Moreton on the 18th, and saw a schooner standing inward, name not made out.

As there are now several vessels engaged in the Wide Bay trade, and the traffic is increasing, there ought to be a separate number for that port, and the vessels from there regularly signalled on their arrival in Sydney.

The fine clipper barque Glencoe (purchased at San Francisco, by Captain Lilewall, for himself and our enterprising merchants, Messrs. W. Hughes and T. Lewis), has made one of the quickest passages to this colony since the California trade commenced, beating the celebrated schooner Iliomama, by nearly three days. She sailed from San Francisco on the 10th August, and from Honolulu on the 29th, arriving in our harbour on the morning of the 27th September. The fine schooner Ilioma a, which has been lying under repair for a considerable time in Mechanic's Bay, has been disposed of this week, to Captain Salmon, for the sum of £400. The Oliver Cromwell, Captain Alexander, proceeded yesterday to Waiheke, to take in a cargo of firewood; she will return to our harbour in about ten days, and sail hence to Valparaiso direct on the 18th instant. The Minerva, Captain Reid, has been chartered to proceed to the Bay of Islands to load a cargo of timber for Melbourne.—New Zealander, October 5.

Circular Head.—September 18: Arrived, the schooner Agnes and Elizabeth, Thompson, from Geelong, bound to Macquarie Harbour, put in to procure more ballast, the vessel being too light. On Monday, the 16th, at one o'clock P.M., the chief mate, Mr. Samuel Smith, was unfortunately washed overboard during a heavy gale from the south-west.

Newcastle.—October 19: Arrived, the barque Glencoe, 280 tons, Lilewall, from San Francisco and Auckland.

PARTNERSHIPS EN COMMANDITE.

By the Common Law in England, if a partner participates in advantages, he also shares in all disadvantages. And in order to constitute a partnership, a communion of profits and loss is essential. The shares must be joint, though it is not necessary they should be equal. If the parties be jointly concerned in the purchase, they must also be jointly concerned in the future sale, otherwise they are not partners. But though this is the common law, the Imperial Legislature has, by an Act of Parliament (1 Vic. c. 73) entitled "An Act for better enabling Her Majesty to confer certain powers and immunities on trading and other companies," provided for a restriction of individual liability of members of a company by letters patent. The Act of Parliament, however, of which we are speaking, is not in force in this colony, and if it were, the obtaining the requisite letters patent would be attended with inconvenience. In England it has been productive of much benefit, for whilst a member of a company is protected by its operations, it has induced capitalists to invest in joint stock companies, which have prudentially placed themselves under the provisions of this Act, resting satisfied with a perfect knowledge of the ultimate amount of their probable liabilities.

But, though the law of England requires that to constitute a partnership there shall be a communion of profit and loss, it is different in other countries. In France, by the ordinance of 1673, limited partnerships, denominated sociétés en commandite, were established, by which one or more persons, responsible in solido as general partners, were associated with one or more sleeping partners or commanditaires, or commanditaries or partners en commandite, who furnished a certain proportion of capital, and were liable to losses only to the extent of the funds or capital furnished by them. This kind of partnership has been continued and regulated by the new code of commerce. A commanditaire must not, however, take any part in the business of the company; if he do this, he loses [illegible]sible for the debts of the association. The old French law required that all general partnership and partnerships en commandite should be reduced to writing and registered, unless when the concern was under one hundred livres in value. Under the modern code of France, the names of the partners in such societies must be published, and the amount of the sums contributed by the commanditaries. After the principle of the workings of partnerships en commandite was established in France, the Americans took advantage of the experience which the French had acquired, of introducing similar partnerships into the United States, and we find them in the Louisianian Code under the title of partnership in commendam.

A partnership of this kind (says an American writer) is supposed to be well calculated to bring dormant capital into active and useful employment; and this species of partnership has accordingly been authorized by statute in Massachusetts, Connecticut, and New York. It is declared, in the latter State, that a limited partnership may consist of one or more persons jointly and severally responsible according to the existing laws, who are called general partners; and one or more persons who furnish certain funds to the common stock, and whose liability shall extend no farther than the fund furnished, and who are called special partners. The names of the special partners are not to be used in the firm, nor are they to transact any business on account of the partnership, or be employed for that purpose as agents, attorneys, or otherwise; but they may, nevertheless, advise as to the management of the partnership concern. Before such a partnership can act, a registry thereof must be made in the clerk's office of the county, with an accompanying certificate signed by the parties, and containing the title of the firm, the general nature of the business, the names of the partners, the amount of capital furnished by the special partners, and the period of the partnership. The capital advanced by the special partners must be in cash, and an affidavit filed stating the fact. Publication must likewise be made for at least six weeks of the terms of the partnership, and due publication for four weeks of the dissolution of the partnership by the act of the parties prior to the time specified in the certificate. No such partnership can make assignments or transfers or create any lien, with the intent to give preference to creditors. The special partners may receive an annual interest on the capital invested, provided there be no reduction of the original capital; but they cannot be permitted to claim as creditors in case of the insolvency of the partnership. It is easy to perceive that the provisions of the Act have been taken in most of the essential points from the French regulations in the commercial code; and it is the first instance in the history of the legislation of New York that the statute law of any other country than that of Great Britain has been closely imitated and adopted.

From all we can learn, the application of the French code has been adopted successfully in the United States, and though the Americans have borrowed their form of partnership from the French, it has hitherto been found to work advantageously. It is to many a matter of surprise that similar partnerships have not been formed in England, where capital is abundant, and the means of investment limited. This circumstance probably is owing in a great measure to the coolness with which such an experiment, when proposed, has been received, as we find from M'Culloch that—

It has been proposed to introduce partnerships of this sort into England, but it seems very doubtful whether anything would be gained by such a measure. Partnerships en commandite may be very easily abused or rendered a means of defrauding the public. It is quite visionary to imagine that the commanditaires can be prevented from indirectly influencing the other partners; and, supposing a collusion to exist amongst them, it might be possible for them to divide large sums as profit, when perhaps they had really sustained a loss; and to have the books of the Association so contrived that it might be difficult to detect the fraud. This, it is alleged, is by no means a rare occurrence in France.

With this opinion of M'Culloch, however, we do not agree. If partnerships en commandite were liable to be abused, or opened the door to fraud, it is difficult to suppose that they would have become so popular in France or the United States. No doubt it is easy to raise surmises of what might be done, but M'Culloch refrains to furnish any instance of abuse, fraud, or collusion; and if, as he mentions, such cases have occurred in France, the occurrence of an isolated case or two has not had the effect of putting an end to their formation.

It appears to us that, though they have not had a trial in England, they might, under proper regulations, be safely and advantageously formed in this colony. A capitalist might be unwilling to invest a portion of his capital in a partnership with an unlimited liability, who would not hesitate to invest a few hundred pounds in one in which he knew at the time of investment that the capital he invested would be the full amount of loss to which he would be subjected; and if similar regulations, which have been found to work so beneficially for investers in France and the United States, were adopted here, security would be given to the public, and the special partner protected from loss beyond the sum which he advanced.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT.—Monday.

Before their Honors the three Judges.

M'EVOY v. HUGHES.

The judge's notes in this case were read, and the argument was proceeded with, but not brought to a conclusion, as the Court was adjourned at an early hour in consequence of one of their Honors having been summoned to attend a sitting of the Executive Council, to report upon the capital cases tried during the late criminal sittings. The arguments will be proceeded with this morning.

In the course of the day His Honor the Chief Justice said, he would have to leave town on Monday evening next, for Moreton Bay, there to hold the Circuit. It was necessary to leave much earlier than was intended, in consequence of only one steamboat now running to that port. The business of the Term, therefore, from Monday next, would have to be taken before two Judges only.

MEETING TO-DAY.

In the estate of Thomas Humphrey, a special meeting, to decide upon an offer of composition, at half-past 10 o'clock.

CITY COUNCIL.

Monday.

Present: the Mayor, Aldermen Thurlow, Broughton, and Egan; Councillors Peden, Thomas, Moore, Paton, Lingard, Driver, Josephson, Ryan, Thornton, Smidmore, Neale, Macdonald, Moffitt, Roberts, Board, Little, [illegible]

Alderman Thurlow brougut up a report from the Finance Committee, recommending the payment of sundry accounts amounting in all to £118 5s. 7d.—Received.

Alderman Broughton brought up a report from the Improvement Committee, on the petition for the construction of a landing place at Dawes' Battery, stating that the financial position of the city would not allow of the work being performed.—Received.

Alderman Broughton brought up a report from the same Committee, recommending certain repairs to the bridge over the cut through Argyle-street, and other works.—Received.

Alderman Egan brought up the report of the Select Committee appointed to consider the propriety of erecting public baths. The report was accompanied by plans, &c., and the amount of expenditure was estimated at £3500.—Received.

Alderman Egan brought up a report from the Select Committee appointed to consider the levels of Messrs. Hogan and Caraher's buildings in Prince-street, recommending a slight alteration in the line of kerbing.

It appeared that there had been no formal meeting of the committee, and an objection was raised by Alderman Thurlow to the reception of any report under these circumstances. This objection was sustained by the Mayor.

PETITIONS.

Mr. Thornton presented a petition from Henry Denton and other residents in Market-street, praying for permission to erect a wall in front of their premises.

The reception of the petition having been moved,

Alderman Broughton objected to the reception of this petition, as the matter to which it had reference had been already decided upon.

The petition was received on division, by a majority of 9 to 7.

Mr. Thornton presented a petition from a number of residents in Elizabeth street South, praying for a repair of that street.—Received and referred to the Improvement Committee.

Mr. Little presented a petition from certain residents in Surry street, Woolloomooloo, praying for the repair of that street.—Received.

PROPOSED FIRE BRIGADE.

The Town Clerk read a letter from Mr. G. R. Griffiths, offering certain suggestions for the immediate formation of a fire brigade.

Referred to the Water Committee, with instructions to report thereon forthwith.

EBENEZER CHAPEL.

A letter, praying for the remission of the building fee charged upon this building, was referred to the Finance Committee.

BUILDING ACT.

A letter was read from the building surveyor (Mr. Golden) asking for instructions with reference to a recent magisterial decision as to the operation of the Building Act.

Referred to a Special Committee.

DISTRESS WARRANTS.

Mr. Thornton suggested the propriety of withholding distress warrants in cases where a reference had upon petition been made to a Ward Assessment Committee.

The Town Clerk explained that no instance of this kind could occur again.

MISSING DOCUMENTS.

Mr. Josephson moved, that it having been reported by the Town Clerk to this Council, that certain papers and documents have been at various times abstracted from his office, and particularly the Amendments proposed by Alderman Thurlow, Councillors Little and Thornton, on the 17th September last, to the motion for adopting an address to his Excellency Sir Charles Augustus Fitz Roy, a committee consisting of Alderman Thurlow, Councillors Peden, Roberts, Williams, Jenkins, and Ryan, be appointed to enquire into and report to the Council, without delay, respecting such abstractions, and to take such evidence therein as the case may require.

Mr. Thomas seconded the motion.

The Town Clerk having explained that the documents alluded to had been found in one of the pigeon holes in his office, it was contended by the mover that this fact alone proved the necessity of enquiry. It had been formerly shown to them that the entire office had been searched without success, thus clearly showing that the documents must have been abstracted and had been restored only when it was found that the matter was one which would be investigated.

The motion, after a short discussion, was put and carried.

TENDERS.

Alderman Broughton moved that the Council do now proceed to open and determine on Tenders for the undermentioned works:—1. The repair of Valentine's Lane; 2. The construction of a drain across Parramatta-street, near Mr O'Sullivan's premises; 3. The erection of a Bridge at the end of Kensington-street.—Carried.

The City Surveyor was instructed to repair Valentine's Lane by day labour—no eligible tender having been received.

The tender of Michael Riley was accepted for the drain in Parramatta-street, and that of Andrew Farrelly was accepted for the Kensington-street bridge.

PETITION OF JOHN BROWN.

Mr. Driver moved that the petition of John Brown, hackney carriage driver, complaining of certain damage sustained by him, from his carriage being over-turned by an obstruction occasioned by the Corporation in Castlereagh-street, and praying for compensation, received by the Council on the 2nd September last, be referred to the Finance Committee for their report.—Carried.

ABERCROMBIE STREET.

Mr. May, in the absence of Mr. Jenkins, moved that the prayer of the petition from certain citizens of Phillip Ward for the removal of an obstruction in Abercrombie street, and for the levelling, metalling, and curbing of that street, received by the Council on the 2nd September last, be granted.

Alderman Broughton moved an amendment, directing only the removal of the obstruction—a gate, and leaving the levelling, &c., to stand over for a future period.

The amendment was carried.

ACCOUNTS.

Sundry accounts, amounting to £118 5s. 7d. were ordered, upon the motion of Alderman Thurlow, to be paid.

IMPROVEMENTS.

Alderman Broughton moved, that tenders be invited for the construction of certain alterations required for strengthening the wooden bridge over the cut in Argyle-street; and for the construction of a culvert under the roadway at the junction of Castlereagh and Hunter-streets, in accordance with the Report of the Improvement Committee of date 16th instant.

Mr. Paton seconded the motion, which was carried.

PUBLIC BATHS.

Alderman Egan moved, that the Report of the Special Committee appointed by the Council on 27th March last, to enquire into and report to the Council, for the information of the Government, on the site in the Domain best suited for a public bathing establishment, and to furnish plans, sections, and estimates of the sheds and buildings necessary to be erected by the Corporation for this purpose, be adopted.

Alderman Thurlow objected to the adoption of a report, involving an outlay of £3500, on the very day that it had been brought up, as being in contravention of the standing orders.

Alderman Egan stated that although, in obedience to the directions of the Council, an estimate as to the probable cost of the work had been prepared, the actual recommendation of the Committee was merely for an application to the Government for a grant of two acres of land with a view to the ultimate carrying out of this work.

The Mayor ruled that the motion was in order.

Mr. Macdonald supported the motion. The work was one which would confer vast benefit upon the citizens, and no time ought to be lost in procuring the land for this purpose.

Mr. Paton also supported the motion.

Alderman Broughton proposed as an amendment the postponement until next meeting of the Council of the consideration of this report, in order that members might have in the mean time an opportunity of inspecting and considering the plans and estimate.

Mr. Roberts seconded the amendment.

Alderman Thurlow was of opinion that the short delay proposed by the amendment [illegible] in respect of a public work of this kind.

Alderman Egan having replied, the Council divided upon the amendment, which was carried by a majority of nine to eight. The Mayor also recorded his vote with the majority.

NEW STREETS.

Mr. Roberts moved, that in accordance with the resolution of Council, of date 30th September last, an address be prepared and adopted by this Council, to His Excellency the Governor, praying for pecuniary assistance from the Government for forming and making the numerous new streets in Cook and Phillip Wards that have been recently dedicated to the public; and that the Mayor, Councillors Roberts and Thornton, be appointed a deputation to wait on His Excellency to present the same.

The address, which had been prepared by the mover, was as follows:—

To His Excellency Sir Charles Augustus Fitz Roy, Knight Companion of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order, Captain-General and Governor in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales and its Dependencies, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c., &c., &c.

May it please your Excellency—

We, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors of the city of Sydney, in Council assembled, beg most respectfully to represent to your Excellency that there are numerous new streets in Cook and Phillip Wards particularly, which have recently been dedicated to the public, and which your memorialists are required not only to keep in repair, but to make and form for the health and comfort of the citizens.

That your memorialists are enabled to state, on the high authority of Sir Thomas Mitchell, the Surveyor-General of the colony, that if Sydney were divided into three parts, it is only in one of these parts, a third of the city, that the streets have been formed and but imperfectly made, that the resources of the Corporation are exhausted in keeping this third portion of the city in repair, whilst the remaining two-thirds are necessarily almost entirely neglected.

That a heavy outlay will be required to make all the new streets, which are mostly a chain wide, and even at present extend over about fourteen miles, whilst the streets in the older portion of the city do not extend over more than about thirteen miles.

That the wards in which the largest amount of rates is collected, being those in which the greatest amount had been expended by the Government before the incorporation of the city, are those in which the smallest expenditure is required, and that those wards which are of more recent formation, where the largest amount of expenditure is required, and the smallest amount of rates is collected, must continue to be in a great measure neglected until some adequate provision be made by the Government to the Corporation for street expenditure.

That your memorialists are fully alive to the necessity that exists for keeping the streets of the city in proper repair, to secure the comfort and the sanitary condition of the citizens, but they humbly submit that the resources of the Corporation, even if the citizens were taxed to the full extent authorised by the Corporation Act, would be totally inadequate for the purpose, and that it is unreasonable to expect the Corporation to perform impossibilities.

That the city of Sydney, which contains so large a proportion of the whole population of the colony, and contributes so largely to the general revenue, from which the whole expenditure for repairing the streets was formerly derived, has, as your memorialists have repeatedly urged, a claim on the Government, proportionate to that of any other district of the colony, to have a portion of that revenue expended in permanent improvements in the metropolis. That this claim was clearly recognised by the parent of the Corporation, his Excellency the late Sir George Gipps, when the Act of Incorporation was under discussion in the old Legislative Council, when his Excellency stated, that as the Government proposed to give to the Corporation, from the water works, markets, and other sources, 14,000*l*. a year, it was no longer an economical measure; that although opposed to grants of land as an endowment to the Corporation, he had no doubt that they would receive from Government, an annual grant of some 5000*l*. as an equivalent. He never asserted that nothing in the shape of additional pecuniary assistance should be granted to the Corporation in aid of its expenses in the construction of sewers, the repairs of streets, and other public works of a similar nature. On the contrary, he thought it not only equitable but desirable that some such aid should be granted to them, more especially as a great portion of these works might be said to apply as much to the benefit of the colony at large as of Sydney individually, which was in itself a sufficient fact to give the corporation a claim for assistance from the General Revenue.

Your memorialists therefore most respectfully pray that your Excellency will be pleased to take such measures as your Excellency may deem expedient for procuring to your memorialists such assistance from the General Revenue of the colony, or otherwise, as will enable your memorialists to carry out the objects of the Incorporation Act in forming and making, curbing, guttering, and keeping in repair the large proportion of the streets of the city which, without such Government aid, must of necessity be neglected by your memorialists.

And your memorialists, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Mr. Thornton seconded the motion, which was put and passed.

The Council then separated.

The Governor.—His Excellency the Governor and the Hon. Mrs. Keith Stewart will leave Parramatta on a trip to the interior on Wednesday, the 30th instant. His Excellency had arranged to start during the present week, but from the unsettled state of the weather, he has postponed his trip to the day named. The route is intended to be to Bathurst, thence to Mr. Icely's, near Carcoar; then to Yass and the Murrumbidgee, and return to Sydney via Goulburn. His Excellency will probably be absent about six weeks.

The Weather.—Sunday and yesterday were more like July days, than the middle of October. On Sunday we had a strong cold north-easterly wind, with occasional light drizzling showers. Yesterday it rained heavily and steadily for several hours in the early part of the day; in the morning there was scarcely a breath of wind, and in the afternoon there was an easterly wind, blowing stiffly in occasional puffs; the evening was showery with every appearance of more rain.

Police Office.—The Mayor, Councillor Josephson (one of the Justices named on the roster for the day), and Mr. O'Neil Brenan, were the sitting magistrates at the Police Court yesterday. The Mayor wished the second Court-room to be opened for the expediting of the public business, but it was found to be in such a state, the rain in several places falling in, and a by no means contemptible stream running throughout its length, that to hold a Court therein was out of all question. The magistrates'-room was then opened as a Court-room, when the Mayor with Mr. Brenan proceeded with the cases on the summons list until Mr. Josephson had got through the business on the free list. How many times the roof of this building has been botched, under the pretence of repairing, it is beyond the power of memory to precisely state, but it is certainly high time that something effectual were done to remedy the nuisance; and when it shall please the authorities of the Architect's department to send some workmen for the purpose named, it would not form any ground of complaint if instructions were given to alter the guttering in such manner that the water which leaves the roof by that means shall find its way into the street gutter on either side the building, instead of, as now, descending by two pipes in front of the doorway and flooding the whole yard to the depth of several inches. In the olden times this has been several times publicly alluded to, but it is to be hoped that the present "powers that be" in the Architect's department will verify the adage that "new brooms sweep clean."—The magistrates whose names appear on the roster for bench duty to-day are Mr. Larnach, Dr. Mitchell, and Mr. Smart.

Reported Discovery of Gold at Moreton Bay.—Some excitement has been caused in Brisbane during the past week, in consequence of the alleged discovery of gold within a mile or a mile and a half from the town. The facts, so far as we have been able to gather them, are these:—Last Wednesday, Mr. Charet, a watchmaker residing at North Brisbane, was [illegible] against a stone which attracted his attention, and on picking it up he found that it was a piece of quartz rock, with a metal resembling gold in several of the interstices of the stone. He did not find any more that time, but mentioned the circumstance to several persons, and next morning, in company with Mr. Colyer, at present residing at the Victoria Hotel, went out again, and, it appears, found other pieces of quartz with gold in them, for Mr. James Powers, of this town, met them returning, and received from Mr. Colyer a piece of quartz which he had found when in company with Mr. Charet, and which showed a vein of gold. The metal was extracted by Mr. Powers with a penknife, and was found to weigh nine grains; and on breaking the stone he found that there were in some places traces of a similar metal. We have seen the piece of quartz found on the first day by Mr. Charet, and there are three specks of yellow metal in it—one protruding, which, as well as the metal extracted by Mr. Powers, is stated to be virgin gold. These circumstances are verified by the positive statements of the persons whose names we have mentioned. Several persons have been out with hammers, &c., geologizing, but as yet we have not heard of any further discoveries. The exact locality of Mr. Charet's alleged discovery has not been disclosed.—Moreton Bay Courier, October 12.

Committals.—On Sunday morning a man named Nicholas Russel gave Jane Campbell into the custody of constable Harris, charged with having, while in her house at Newtown, stolen from his trousers pocket four half-crowns. The case came on for hearing yesterday, and the prisoner was committed for trial.—On Saturday afternoon, Mr. Robert Gill, of Cook's River Road, gave William Baldock into the custody of constable Coman, for stealing a saddle. It appeared that Mr. Gill left his horse, bridled and saddled, fastened up opposite the Mechanics' School of Arts, and shortly afterwards missed the horse, which was brought back by the prisoner; after again fastening the horse Mr. Gill left him but on returning to depart, the animal was again gone; in consequence of information received from a policeman, who found the horse straying, without a saddle, he found the horse at Dixon's stables, near the police-office: about the same time a man named Mullen, in the employ of Henry Morrow, of Kent-street, took a saddle to the receiving watch-house, which had been left by Baldock at Morrow's stables, and it was identified by Mr. Gill as the saddle that had been stolen off his horse. Yesterday these facts were given in evidence, and the prisoner was committed to take his trial for the offence.

Breaking Windows.—Between the hours of 11 and 12 on Sunday night, William Clarke, a private watchman at Chippendale, received in custody from a Mr. Martin, residing in that vicinity, a young woman named Harriet Cory, of rather prepossessing appearance, for having broken some windows by throwing stones thereat, on a charge of wilfully destroying property. As, however, Mr. Martin did not appear to prosecute his charge, and as it was evident that the defendant was, or had been, a frequenter at the house, their worships discharged her from custody, cautioning her, however, that she must devise some other and less offensive serenading scheme for the time to come.

Careless Driving.—Erwin Smith, in custody for carelessly driving over a child on the South Head Road, was yesterday remanded until Monday next, but discharged on bail for his appearance, it appearing that the child is out of danger, though not thoroughly recovered from the injury.

Attempted Burglary.—About 8 o'clock on Saturday night, Mr. Morris, of Elizabeth-street, left his residence, locking the door, and taking the key with him. In about an hour thereafter he returned, found the door open, and a key in it, but nothing was taken from the house. In all probability the thief or thieves were alarmed or disturbed, and thought it prudent to make a hasty retreat. The false key left in the door is given up to the police.

Information Important to the Clergy.—The directors of the Australian Mutual Provident Society have passed a resolution that a deduction of ten per cent. shall be made from the premiums payable on the policies of all Clergymen insured in that office. The resolution takes effect from the 7th of August last.

Hurra for Separation!—Our, generally speaking, sobersided friend, the Geelong Advertiser, having heard that "Separation had come," burst into the following rhapsodical effusion:—"Pooh! who would write common prose at such a time? when the tingling of the life blood of a new era, the transfusion of a fiery, generous, rapid-coursing, new birth is in our veins. Why the very stars twinkled with a four-fold lustre, and the blue panoply of Heaven looked more serene and beautiful than ever. Men walk with a firmer tread, and leave a deeper impress on the foot-paths, their gait is firmer, and their heads nearer heaven by an inch. Gladness shall be everywhere, joy in every countenance, and smiles on every lip. Discontent and the blue devils shall be henceforth banished for "ever and aye."—and our mirth shall border upon wildness for a time—and the commonplace of everyday life shall be temporarily submerged under the rolling flashing surge of our enthusiasm, and sparkle with phosphorescent gems. Long vistas of the future open up to the expectant gaze, and bright rainbows of hope in prismatic freshness span and intersect our glorious Victoria on every side. Hurrra! then for everything and everybody! The great change is come, and even tee-totallers shall quaff champagne from deep goblets, and bathe in soda water fountains, in the delirium of their gladness." Under any circumstances, the writer who was sufficiently "primed" to fire off such a shot as this, must have had a severe headache in the morning; but what must have been his feelings when he found that he had got the steam up on a false alarm, and that separation had not arrived, and would certainly be delayed for five or six weeks.

The Cockatoo Island Runaways.—About 11 o'clock on Saturday night, Sergeant M'Gee, of the Sydney Police, succeeded in apprehending Kitchen, one of the runaways from Cockatoo, whose absence was reported on Saturday. The other was seen, but made his escape.

Wool, Salt Beef, &c.—Mr. Samuel Lyons reminds buyers that he sells this day, at his Mart, at 11 o'clock, wool, prime mess beef, billiard balls, collection of shells, women's and children's shoes, stockmen's coats, brazil nuts, soft shell almonds, starch, pistols, &c.—Communicated.

To Perfumers, Druggists, and Others.—The attention of the trade and others is invited to the sale of Rowland's perfumery, to be held by Mr George A. Lloyd, at his Rooms, this day, at 11 o'clock.

NEWS FROM THE INTERIOR.

(From our Correspondents.)

WINDSOR.

Blythe Waterland's Serenaders.—We were very much delighted with the performance of these artists on Monday evening last, at Mr. Ridge's, Fitz Roy Hotel; although the notice was very short, the attendance was very numerous. On Tuesday evening, they repeated their concert, and notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, we are happy to say, there was a far greater audience than could be expected, so well are their musical endeavours to please appreciated.

Road Trust.—Convinced that this is a matter of great public importance, and that the public were anxious to know the deliberations of the Road Trust, we applied to be allowed admission to their meetings, as the correspondent of the Sydney Morning Herald. In answer to our first application, we were assured that our letter should be the first subject taken into consideration at their next meeting. The day after, we were presented with our own letter, and were informed, that the application could not be entertained, unless we signed our name to it. Being anxious to prevent every obstacle towards the public having a knowledge of the result of their deliberations, we signed our name. Fancying that all was now correct, we attended at Mr. Ridge's, and enquired for an answer to our letter, when after waiting for about half an hour, we were verbally informed that the Road Trust had resolved not to infringe on their rules until after the first of January. Admission was consequently denied. As the public is much interested in the deliberations of this body, we make this statement to show that we have endeavoured to do our duty in the matter.

Bell's Line of Road.—We earnestly recommend to all the numerous cattleholders of the districts of Wellington, Bathurst, Carcoar, Windsor, &c., not to exhibit any apathy upon this important subject, but to come forward freely, and contribute each his mite towards the completion of the object, attended as it must be with such beneficial results.

Macdonald River.—We observed a letter from W. M. in your issue of Wednesday. But we really consider out time too valuable to be bestowed in answering such a petty composition, which has no point whatever in it.

A Second Flood this Year.—On the 26th July last, it will be remembered that Windsor was visited with a severe flood, which it was then feared would have been the cause of great injury to the farmers and others in the district; fortunately, upon that occasion the benefit, generally speaking, greatly outbalanced the injury. We regret that we now have the painful task of communicating to you the particulars of another flood, the effects of which exhibit a very different character from the former. Business having called us to Penrith on Tuesday last, we started about six in the morning, when the rain which had been previously threatening from the south-east, fell very hard. As we neared Penrith, it partially ceased: a drizzling rain continued during the greater part of the day. In the afternoon, we proceeded to St. Mary's, and remained there all night, intending to start for Windsor on the following morning,—accordingly, having roused ourselves at 5 o'clock, we found the whole vicinity flooded to an awful extent. During the night the thunder had been awfully loud and almost incessant; most vivid lightning, and torrents of rain; all communication was cut off betwixt Penrith, Windsor, and Parramatta; it was feared from the rapid rise of the water that the respective bridges at Blind Creek and St. Mary's would have been totally swept away; the waters continued to rise until about half past two P.M., after which time they rapidly assuaged, and by five o'clock the following morning there were very few signs of it left. With considerable danger and much difficulty we succeeded on Thursday in reaching Windsor, where the spectacle which presented itself to us was most melancholy. The waters in the Creek had risen about fifteen feet, and afterwards rose to about five feet more. The strong bridge lately constructed by Mr. Laban White was, of course, completely under water, but great hopes were entertained that it was not injured. About five o'clock P.M. on Thursday, the river was rapidly rising, and the punt was made fast upon the Wilberforce side; gardens and paddocks were flooded all round: but people's fears were allayed by finding that this flood did not rise so high by two feet as the former one. On Thursday evening, the waters slowly returned. No mail came up on Tuesday night. On Friday morning, the Road Trust and numerous other people were anxiously looking for the re appearance of Howe Bridge, and had employed men to clear away the logs and other matter which had floated down, in order to prevent it sustaining any injury; on Saturday morning, the bridge appeared, with a deal of damage done to it. On the end of it leading to Parramatta some of the rails were broken down, and every appearance of a clean break down of the bridge itself. This, unfortunately, took place about mid-day. At the time the crash took place, a young lad, the son of Mr Mortley, of this town, was precipitated into the water under the beams, which pressed him down. A resident of this town, of the name of Ward, humanely rushed to his rescue, and fortunately succeeded in saving the little fellow, who was exceedingly exhausted. Mr. Cadell, who was standing on the bridge at the time, had a very narrow escape. We have been informed by one of the Road Trust today, that we may think ourselves lucky if the damage to the bridge is repaired in a fortnight. We fear that great injury has been sustained by the farmers in this flood, as the crops were just in that state of forwardness which rendered them most liable to injury. We have not heard of any accidents further than that mentioned. Whilst we write this (Saturday, half-past 4 P.M.) the rain is coming down rather heavily, with every prospect of a continuation. In fact, from the appearance of the clouds and the mountains yesterday and today, we shall not be at all surprised if a fresh rise takes place.

MARYBOROUGH, WIDE BAY.

A great feeling of dissatisfaction has arisen among the residents here, from the fact the of Surveyor (who some time since commenced operations) having intimated his intention to recommend a place about two miles distant by land and eight by water from the present settlement, as a more proper site for a town. This place in ordinary seasons is quite destitute of fresh water, a great portion of it dense scrub, the river banks are so steep that wharves cannot be made, unless at a great expense, the opposite bank can never be reached by land, from the quantity of creeks with which it is surrounded, and must be unhealthy from the number of swamps and marshes in the neighbourhood.

The present settlement, Maryborough, was fixed on by some of the first inhabitants as the most convenient place known to them on the river Mary, being situated so that vessels could ship wool, &c., from both sides of the river Mary, the water being fresh eight months in the year, and at the head of navigation the banks are such that wharves can be formed at a trifling expense, and its healthiness is proved by an experience of two years; as to depth of water in the river, a vessel of 120 tons was loading when the Liberty sailed.

The parties whose interests are attached intend memorialising His Excellency the Governor, praying that he will fix on the present settlement as the town, and to direct that a maritime survey of the river Mary and bay adjacent may take place, so that a township may be made near the heads, at which place wool may be shipped direct for England: for it is a matter of the greatest importance to the Government as well as the community, and there is no doubt His Excellency will interfere, for in reality the place fixed on by the Surveyor will not sell, whereas the present settlement, from its advantages, will be eagerly purchased by the residents.

We are badly off for a wheelwright and blacksmith, as drays, ploughs, &c., are now brought from Sydney for want of tradesmen; brickmakers would also obtain plenty of work, as there is excellent brick earth in the neighbourhood.

The shearing has commenced, and it is calculated that 3000 bales of wool will be shipped this season from Wide Bay.

A number of sawyers have located here, for the purpose of cutting timber for the Sydney market; they have large quantities of pine cut, but cannot get it taken away. Between wool and pine, at least four extra vessels can find loading. Great disappointment has been felt by taking the Elizabeth Jane and James and Amelia off the trade.

The blacks are getting very troublesome, the general cry is, where are the Native Police? Unless something is soon done by sending a portion of that body here, the squatters will have to give up sheep farming. They complain, and not without cause, that having paid their assessment, they ought to be protected.

I have just heard that more outrages have been committed by the blacks. A man of Mr. Scott's murdered, and 2000 sheep driven off; a man of Mr. Murray's severely wounded, and a flock taken. Not the slightest assistance has been sent to recover the lost sheep, and it is now becoming a very serious matter: for unless the outrages are checked by the strong hand of power, I should not be surprised at the blacks cutting off the drays or attacking the settlement.

BERRIMA.

Virgil has, with a want of gallantry with which we most emphatically repudiate any concurrence, pronounced a slanderous libel upon the fairer portion of creation.

Varium et mutabile semper femina.

Were a similar remark addressed to the weather in this district, it would be far from being inapplicable or inappropriate. On Saturday and Sunday last, the summer appeared to have fairly "set in." On Sunday, especially, the heat was intense, the bright blue expanse of a cloudless sky served to encourage the belief that the weather had, like the transportation question, become "finally settled."

Every bud
Hung languid o'er the crystal flood
Faint as the lids of maiden's eyes
Beneath a lover's burning sighs.

And the light habiliments suitable to the more "genial season" were assumed by the numerous promenaders, who indulged in the prospect that

The winter it was past
And the summer come at last.

But alas! we had judged too precipitately, and reckoned without our host, for the appearance of Monday dispelled our fancied security. During the day the horizon became obscured, and towards evening the hills were occasionally enveloped by heavy shrouds of mist, whilst, ever and anon the rumbling of distant thunder warned us, in nautical parlance, to "look out for squalls." Towards sundown some slight showers fell; these however were not of long continuance—the moon arose in cloudless brilliancy, still the cirro-stratus gradually showed itself, and the horizon was illuminated by the most vivid and frequent lightning. At about three o'clock on Tuesday morning (the 15th), the tempest burst forth in all its fury—

The sky is changed! and such a change! oh, night,
And storm and darkness, ye are wondrous strong!
Yet lovely in your strength as is the light
Of a dark eye in woman! Far along
From peak to peak the rattling crags among,
Leaps the live thunder!
And the big rain comes dancing to the earth.

During the entire day the rain fell with incessant violence, and the thunder pealed with little intermission. The effects of the tempest soon become visible in the swollen state of the creeks, which augmented with considerable rapidity, presenting the aspect of rushing torrents, where gentle rivulets meandered but a few hours previous. The rain continued during the night, and was accompanied by a strong wind from the south and south-east, which carried with it a humid chill, sensibly affecting those who are labouring under the effects of catarrh and influenza—diseases at present very prevalent in the neighbourhood,—to the great inconvenience and discomfort of the afflicted, and to the profit and self-gratulation of the medical practitioners.

The flood was considerable at Berrima. On Wednesday, the rush of water through the bridge was tremendous, affording a pleasing prospect to the lover of the picturesque, but by no means agreeable to those residing in the vicinity, whose ideas of interest counterbalanced those of romance, and who had just cause to apprehend the demolition of the structure, already somewhat shattered by the previous floods. The Executive Government have, we understand, communicated with the Bench of Magistrates upon the subject of repairing this bridge. We trust that no unnecessary delays may occur, as upon the stability of that structure much of the "weal or woe" of the town depends. The flood must have been great in the neighbourhood of the Bargo River, as no mail from Sydney arrived on Wednesday. The roads which, under the influence of the recent spell of fine weather, had become more traversable, will now be again fearfully cut up, to the serious inconvenience of those who have to "take to the road," as a means of subsistence.

Thursday, 17.—The waters have greatly subsided, and a bright sun and cloudless sky seems to promise a return of fair weather. Amid all the inconveniences attendant upon the fickleness of the climate, there is one consolation observable in the appearance of the crops, which promise favourably, with the assurance of an unusual abundance of pasturage for cattle proceeding towards the Sydney market.

GOULBURN.

Non-Arrival of the Sydney Mail.—This day at two o'clock, P.M., there were two mails from the metropolis due, the first ought to have been here on the evening of Wednesday, at eight o'clock, and on the following morning at two should have returned with the overland mail bags from Port Phillip; but these have been lying in our office ever since, and no appearance of any mail to take them on to Sydney. This is the second time this delay has occurred during the last three months. Some means ought to be devised to prevent their recurrence. It has been suggested that in the event of the mail coach not being able to cross at certain places on occasion of wet weather that the mail bags should be floated over in a cask; extraordinary obstacles require extraordinary means to be taken to overcome them, and the more especially when the interests of the public are involved. In the event of no arrival from Port Phillip or England, in the port of Sydney during the present week, it will be found that most important intelligence has been lying in our Post-office for several days on account of no mail arriving to take it on to Sydney.

MAIL CONTRACT.—We believe that Mr. J. H. Jones, of Bargo, has obtained the contract for the conveyance of the mail for the ensuing year throughout the whole line of road from Sydney to Melbourne. We hope some alteration has been made for accelerating the hour of arrival at Goulburn on the evenings of Wednesdays and Saturdays.

THUNDER STORM.—On the evening of Friday, the 11th instant, a thunder storm passed over the town, and since then a great change has taken place in the atmosphere, instead of the genial warmth we had for some days, the weather has become quite cold. On the 14th we were visited by a fall of hail, but not to do any damage; a great quantity of rain also fell, and the Mulwarre Creek is considerably swollen.

SHEEP WASHING.—Operations connected with the wool-shed are being entered into; sheep washing at Lansdown Park has been going on since the weather began to take a change for the better; the late rain has put both the water holes in the Wollondilly and the Mulwarre in excellent trim for sheep washing.

TEA MEETING.—A public tea meeting was held in the Wesleyan chapel, on the 9th instant, which was numerously and respectably attended, all present seemed to enjoy the treat. The Meeting was addressed by the Rev. Mr. Schofield and others belonging to the same communion.

SALE OF TOWN ALLOTMENTS AND SMALL FARMS.—There was a sale of lands of the above description held at the police-office here, on the ninth instant, when the lots sold realized £277.

CHARGE OF MURDER.—It will be remembered that about four months ago the following paragraph appeared in the Sydney Herald, taken from an Adelaide paper:—

FRIGHTFUL MURDER ON THE DARLING.—It will be remembered that some months ago a most brutal murder was committed on the Darling by a man named Hamilton, the person killed being Jarvis, a hawker, whom he shot in his cart. The criminal was pursued by the police, but escaped to the Sydney side, where all traces of him were lost. It has now transpired that he came overland again with another person with horses, and about a fortnight ago reached the Darling, where he deliberately shot his companion, then hewed the body in pieces and burned it. He continued his journey to Adelaide, where he remained for some days, and sold his horses, without being recognised, and left on Tuesday last. Almost immediately afterwards the news of the second murder was brought in, we believe through the blacks, and the police started in pursuit. The supposed murderer was brought in yesterday morning. The following are the particulars of the atrocious affair:—On April 20, two men, who appear to have been with the prisoner, and another named Bunton, supposed to be the person murdered, crossed the Murray with seven or eight head of horses, and camped opposite to Mr. M'Leod's station, at the junction of the Darling, about 300 miles from Adelaide. On Monday they went to a sheep station of Mr. Paterson's on the Darling, and from thence proceeded to the Billybong, five miles off, for the purpose of getting feed for their horses. The same evening a young man from Mr. Macdonald's station called at Mr. M'Leod's and mentioned that he had followed two men who were evidently the same, believing them to have stolen his horse. On Tuesday morning he continued his pursuit, and presently returned, saying that he had overtaken Johnson alone, about fourteen miles from the place. He had charged him with taking the horse, which he did not deny, and said he had exchanged it for a mare which he had then with him. The young man asked him where his companion was, and he replied that he had gone to Mr. M'Calvay's sheep station. Mr. M'Leod, whose fears the young man's story had excited for his own horses, then sent one of his men to look after them. This man heard that the horses had been seen coming down to water, and that Johnson in passing had asked where they were. On being informed of this, Mr. M'Leod dispatched his man to M'Calvay's, where he found that no man answering Bunton's description had been seen. In his way back, he called at Paterson's station, where one of the shepherds mentioned that he had seen a fire on Saturday night in the Billygong, to which Johnson and Bunton were directed, and had supposed that some persons were camping there and 'roasting a calf.' This and the whole circumstances attracting Mr. Paterson's attention, he rode round that way on Wednesday morning, and on examining the remains of the fire, found a quantity of human bones partially burnt, some of which he brought away in his handkerchief. When the news was received in Adelaide, the Inspector and the Sergeant-Major started in pursuit. About dusk, near the Salt Creek, they saw Johnson camped. Being all in bush costume, they excited no suspicion, and Mr. Alford asked for a pan of tea, immediately the Sergeant-Major seized Johnson and secured him. As the offence was not committed in this colony, he will have to be conveyed to Sydney or Melbourne for trial.—Adelaide Paper.

It would appear that the prisoner's name is William Coope, alias Johnson, and that he was forwarded from Adelaide to the scene of the murder; and it appears that the bench of magistrates assembling at Balranold, in the vicinity of the junction of the Darling, has caused him to be forwarded here, and he was received into Goulburn jail on the 12th instant. For some purpose or another it appears that a box, containing some part of the bones of a human being, has also been forwarded at the same time.

BODY FOUND.—The body of a man was found near the cross-roads leading from the Rocky Water Holes, on the Boischeese Estate, Yass Road, towards Mummell; it is presumed that it has been lying there for some days, as the body is partially destroyed by ants. He appears to have been an elderly person, but no one appears to know anything about him. The body was brought in yesterday, to the John Barley Corn Inn, where an inquest will be held this day.

P.S.—Half-past nine o'clock P.M. of the 18th instant, the mail coach has just arrived. We believe the cause of detention was the flooded state of the Cowpasture River; a boat should be provided at that place for the conveying mails across in the event of a flood.

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

COTTON.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—I have recently received a small parcel of most beautiful cotton, from Mr. R. J. Smith, of Moreton Bay, which was grown without any care in his garden at Ipswich, and as the sample is pronounced to be of most excellent quality, I am induced to ask you to give publicity to the following extract, taken from the Liverpool Mail of June last. "Ninepence per pound has been obtained for the five bales of indigenous cotton from Port Natal, lately consigned to Mr. Hugh Fleming, secretary of the Manchester Commercial Association." Surely we can grow cotton as well as the Cape,—indeed I am informed by parties who have some knowledge of cotton, that the sample in my possession is worth in England at least from 10d to 1s. per lb.!

Is not the subject worthy of more attention than it has hitherto received?

Your obedient servant,
THOMAS S. MORT.
Sydney, October 18.

THE ASSAULT ON THE QUEEN.

EXAMINATION AT THE HOME OFFICE.

THE Right Hon. Sir George Grey, Home Secretary, arrived at the Home Office at twelve o'clock, and was shortly joined by the Chancellor of the Exchequer (Sir Charles Wood), the Military Secretary (Lord Fitzroy Somerset), and the Attorney-General, Mr. George Cornewall Lewis, M.P., and Mr. Waddington, the Under-Secretaries of State, Mr. Hall, the Chief Police Magistrate, and Mr. Burnaby, Chief Clerk of Bow-street Police Court, were also in attendance.

The prisoner Pate arrived at the Home Office at a quarter past twelve o'clock, and was conducted to an ante-room, where he remained for a few minutes pending the completion of the arrangements for his examination. On entering the room, which contained several persons, the prisoner betrayed no emotion, but took his seat on a chair to which he was directed by the superintendent. He is a person of very gentlemanly appearance, apparently a little over thirty years of age, of a light delicate complexion, and very light brown hair. A premature baldness over the crown of his head gives him a somewhat more aged appearance than he would otherwise have. He was dressed with peculiar neatness—almost approaching dandyism, in a loose blue frock coat, a white double-breasted waistcoat, buttoned closely up to the throat, a blue neckerchief, and a pair of tweed trousers, with buttoned boots.

When the prisoner was introduced, the charge taken at the police station was read over by Mr. Bayne, the Chief Commissioner of the Police, who, with Captain Hay, his Commissioner, was in attendance. At this moment Mr. Huddleston, the barrister, instructed by Mr. Hardesty, the solicitor, of Great Marlborough-street, who accompanied the learned gentleman, arrived at the Home Office, for the for the purpose of being present on behalf of the prisoner. An application to this effect having been made to the Attorney-General, permission was granted, and Mr. Huddleston and Mr. Hardesty were both admitted to the room where the investigation was proceeding. Their entrance was observed by the prisoner, but although Mr. Hardesty is personally known to him as the legal adviser of his family, he exhibited no mark of recognition, and stood unmoved at the end of the table.

The first witness examined was Colonel the Honorable Charles Grey. In reply to questions on the part of the Attorney-General, the gallant Colonel said he was one of Her Majesty's equerries, and in that capacity was in attendance upon the Queen on the evening of Thursday last. Her Majesty's carriage was in the act of leaving the court-yard of Cambridge-house, about 20 minutes after six o'clock, on the evening in question, when witness, who was following it on horseback, observed a man strike a blow at Her Majesty with a small stick which he held in his hand. Before witness could get out of the gateway, which was stopped up by the carriage, he saw Renwick, the Queen's sergeant footman, seize the man who had struck Her Majesty, and hold him till he was dragged away by the mob. That man was the prisoner. Of this fact he had no doubt whatever.

The prisoner having been told by Mr. Hall that he was at liberty to ask the witness questions, declined doing so.

R. Renwick was next called, and examined by the Attorney-General, in reply to whom he said that it was his duty to be in attendance upon Her Majesty as sergeant footman. He was seated in the rumble of the Royal carriage, behind Her Majesty, on Thursday evening, as she left Cambridge House. As the postilions were in the act of turning into the road, a momentary pause took place, while the outriders were clearing the road for the Queen to pass, and at this instant a man, who was standing at the extreme edge of the kerbstone, raised his arm and struck the Queen a sharp blow on the forehead with a small stick.

The Attorney-General here produced the stick taken from the prisoner—a small partridge cane about 2 feet 2 inches long, with a carved hook for a handle, and small brass ferule at the end—and inquired whether that was like the stick in question.

Mr. Renwick said it was.

The Attorney-General—Did you see the man who struck her Majesty?

Mr. Renwick—I did.

The Attorney-General—Do you think the prisoner is that man?

Mr. Renwick—I am certain he is. I have no question about it.

The prisoner again declined asking the witness any questions.

Sergeant Silver, of the A division, was next examined—He said he was on duty in Piccadilly about twenty minutes past six o'clock on Thursday evening, when he observed a crowd of persons near Cambridge House, and immediately afterwards heard a voice call out, "The villian has struck the Queen!" Witness ran to the spot and found the prisoner in the hands of the mob, who were violently assaulting and ill-treating him. After some difficulty, and with the assistance of other constables, witness succeeded in rescuing the prisoner and conveying him to the police-station. Witness took from the prisoner a small riding-stick, which appeared to have been in use some time. The stick produced was the one in question.

Samuel Cowling, of 8, Norwich-court, Fetter-lane, was next called—He said he was in Piccadilly on Thursday evening, at a little after six o'clock, and formed one of the crowd waiting to see her Majesty leave Cambridge House. The prisoner was standing close to witness's right elbow, and gave him some annoyance by endeavouring to force himself in front of witness. When the royal carriage was in the act of passing from the court-yard into Piccadilly, witness saw the prisoner raise his hand and strike the Queen on the forehead with a small stick. Witness instantly caught hold of the prisoner's right arm, and called out loudly for the police, who came after a short interval and took the prisoner to the station-house.

The witness, whose appearance certainly bore testimony to the truth of his assertion, said that he was a very poor man, and as he had lost his hat in the scuffle which followed the apprehension of the prisoner he hoped some recompense would be made to him.

The Attorney-General assured him his claim should be liberally satisfied.

At this stage of the examination the Attorney-General applied for a postponement of the further examination of the prisoner until Tuesday.

Mr. Huddlestone, on the part of the prisoner, hoped the Attorney-General would extend to to him the indulgence of a longer remand, and suggested that the following Friday should be fixed for the re-examination.

The Attorney-General having assented,

Mr. Hall intimated that the prisoner would be brought up again at 12 o'clock on Friday, when the witnesses were all ordered to be in attendance.

The prisoner's committal was then made out and placed in the hands of Mr. Otway, under whose charge he was subsequently conveyed in a cab to the House of Detention in Clerkenwell.

Before leaving the Home Office, and while waiting his committal, the prisoner wrote down a list of books which he requested he might be furnished with from his library. Among the books he wished for were Guizot's History of Civilization, Palace of Architecture, &c.

A large crowd awaited the prisoner's departure from the Home Office, and when he was brought out the hissing and hooting on the part of the spectators were fearful. "Scoundrel!" "Rascal!" and other similar ejaculations resounded on every side, and it was with some difficulty that the police could protect him from the summary vengeance of the people.

Mr. Doherty (of the Rifle Brigade) and the other witnesses who had been in attendance during the morning, subsequently proceeded to Gwyder-house, where their depositions were received by Mr. Maule, Solicitor for the Treasury, who will on examination determine whether it will be necessary to call any, and what others in addition to those already examined.

Mr. Pate, senior, father of the prisoner, arrived in town the previous day, and waited upon the authorities in reference to his son's painful position. This gentleman is highly respected in Cambridgeshire, for which county he filled the office of high-sheriff only the year before last.

G. C. TUTING, PROPRIETOR.

TO THE LADIES of New South Wales.

In consequence of the extensive fields which each successive year opens out for national and individual enterprise, this infant Colony has now attained a reputation for commercial importance which is unparalleled in the history of colonization. With the rapidly increasing population is the progress of individual enterprise, and never, perhaps, in this Colony, was there a more striking illustration of this than is furnished by G. C. TUTING, who, being aided by a combination of advantages which few persons possess, will,

G. C. The advantageous arrangements made by G. C. T, previous to leaving England, for having regular monthly Shipments of Select Goods, will be apparent to all who may inspect his late EXTENSIVE IMPORTATIONS, ex respectively the General Hewett, Phœnician, Princess Victoria, and the Kate, all of which Goods have been purchased of the Manufacturers in Vienna, Lyons, Paris, London, Manchester, Leeds, Bradford, Huddersfield, Norwich, and Luton, on terms so liberal as to enable him to sell at such prices that none can fail to be impressed with the benefits to be derived from such arrangements.

C. S. HAIGH AND CO. have great pleasure in stating to their numerous Patrons, that the whole of their first shipment ex Phœnecian, is now landed, opened, and ready for inspection. Without stopping to state that the goods were bought at Vienna, Lyons, or any rigmarole about infant colonies, a brother-in-law to Mr. So-and-so, or allowing 7½ per cent. discount in favour of one class of customers over another, all of which the common sense of the residents of Sydney and the colony generally know to be the most rank humbug, they will fearlessly state that their Mr. B. S. Haigh has purchased for cash in Europe, goods of every description, which they will sell at prices that cannot fail to speak loudly to the conscience and pockets of their patrons.

C. S. Haigh and Co. would call particular attention to the fact of these goods having been bought and shipped by Mr. B. S. From the experience C. S. Haigh and Co. have had in this business, they know that they can only continue their present extensive country connexion by adhering to their system of business, which has already made them so popular in the interior; that system is to sell the best articles in the trade at the lowest market prices, and not allow themselves to be undersold, whatever sacrifice they may be compelled to make by fluctuations in the market; and having laid in an extensive stock of every variety of slops when they were ruinously low, some months ago, their friends shall have the advantage of this in the present rising market. They will not quote prices, but reiterate that they cannot be undersold in this department—and one call will convince any candid man that such is the case.

C. S. Haigh and Co. would state, in conclusion, that though their premises are at present small and inconvenient for the amount of business they are compelled to transact in them, yet for the comfort of their numerous patrons, they have now in course of erection premises which will give them an opportunity of showing their friends that notwithstanding the immense puffing going on around them, they have not only stood their ground, but have very much advanced in public favour.

ELEGANT PIANOS.
JUST LANDED, EX PHOENICIAN.

MR. CHARLES NEWTON

HAS the honour to announce that he has had placed in his hands for sale TEN VERY ELEGANT AND SUPERIOR PIANOFORTES, from one of the first London firms, who give the following description of them:—

"Ten elegant Pianofortes, in rose and Zebra wood, comprising Cottage, Semi-Cottage, and Piccolo's, all of which are got up in the very best possible manner, with patent iron truss bracing, handsome carved truss legs, ivory points to keys, compass C to A, being 82 notes. Such is the superiority of style, as well as touch and tone, with which these pianos are executed, together with the infinite importance of the new patent bracing, that they claim a superiority over any others yet introduced to the known world. The dead pull of the strings upon a good pianoforte is supposed to be about four tons weight, which is all upon one side of the instrument, consequently the piano is always bending its back, and then it follows that the sounding-board becomes too long for its place, very soon after this, it will be found to split hither and thither. The proper bearings of the piano will be lost, and the bass bridge will soon go down, all pure vibration is stopped, and in many cases the piano completely spoiled and useless, but by means of the Patent Truss Bracing being applied to the pianoforte in its formation, all these evils are remedied, and it would be found by examination (which is easily done by unscrewing the back of the piano, and placing a straight-edge against the bracing), that those pianos constructed with it have not moved one jot, while those without it have leant over, some even three-eighths of an inch, some more, some less. The piano with patent will also stand up to pitch, when once seasoned to its place; and all its bearings will remain perfectly good, the pressure being taken off the sounding board by this new application."

They may be inspected at the show room of the auctioneer, during the present week.
Entrance down the gateway adjoining the Sale Room, or through the Sale Room. 6752
